

Mountains and Fountains

Malcolm Smith and Brian Bennett

Mountains and fountains and hot summer days
Over the valleys a blue misty haze
Walking and talking and sharing good wines
These were the best of times

Fountains and mountains and places between Highways and byways to sights yet unseen
Travellers together in friendship renewed
We should remark, as we depart, "we'll miss you"

instrumental verse

Tales old and new and so many smiles
Roads are long but friends bridge the miles
From ocean beaches to steep cobbled streets
It's rare for such good friends to meet

Hiking the high trails and Chatillon's lanes
Toasting in Clairette and waving at trains
Rejoicing when drivers klaxon bonjour
These memories, such memories endure
